

Foster & Adoptive Care

Patti Roscoe
Editor

Chair of the Day, Gayle Hom, introduced an interesting and important program to us this week. There are over 400,000 children in foster care in the United States. Of those, 60,000 reside in California, with 40,000 in Southern California.

These children may be orphans, or abandoned, or have parents who have been deported. Seventy percent have parents who are substance abusers. Walden Family Services (WFS) assists these children with offices throughout Southern California.

Guest speaker and Executive Director of WFS, Teresa Stivers, riveted us with its story. Walden Family Services has a vision that every child has a loving family and the ability to realize their potential toward becoming a self-sufficient and productive member of their community. This is extremely challenging in itself. Put into the mix their constituency – orphans or foster care children with special needs who may be developmentally challenged, medically fragile, technology dependent (feeding tubes, oxygen, etc.), chronic drug abusers, victims of sexual or physical abuse, or suffering from PTSD with issues of low self-esteem and negative behavior.

WFS's major goal is to place children in foster care and, eventually, return them to their birth families or have them adopted into a loving "forever family." In the meantime, the children receive much needed therapeutic foster care.

The organization was founded in 1976 and, over the years, has increased its scope of services and progressive programs.

- ◆ Independent Futures program - providing services and support for pre- and post-emancipated foster youth.
- ◆ Pregnant and Parenting Teen program, which supports pregnant and parenting teens both pre- and post-emancipation.

- ◆ LGBTQ - a program to educate the community, advocate for and safely place foster youth who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender or questioning.
- ◆ Adoption License – the ability to place children to qualified, loving adopted families.
- ◆ Transitional Housing program – for children 18 to 21, an optional program that allows children to stay in foster care, find a job, and create an independent life. Without this service, many children released from WFC at 18 years of age eventually find themselves homeless, pregnant, or incarcerated.
- ◆ Nurturing Parenting Classes for Building Healthy and Caring Families - young or teen parents may participate in free 13-week classes aimed at helping them become capable parents.

To become a foster parent, one must be 21 years of age or older, single or married, have a proper bedroom for a child, undergo an extensive background check, have the income to meet the needs of an adopted child with special needs, be in good physical and mental health, and attend a series of educational classes. Being a foster parent in the WFS system is not for everyone, but there are many children in need of loving families. Dial 211 for a list of organizations if you feel able to help. The words that popped into this editor's mind while listening to the presentation and thinking of the qualities one needs to become a foster parent were caring, nurturing, selfless, committed, patient, and loving – true service above self. There are many in Club 33 who are foster parents or have been foster children themselves. Art Candland is a volunteer extraordinaire to WFS and both he and President Michelle are known to be generous and philanthropic within our community – in so many ways.

Foster & Adoptive Care Continued

In honor of Mother's Day, Teresa also highlighted a few of the special moms that have fostered and eventually adopted special needs children through their program. Special, indeed, are these ladies, and quite inspirational!

Our very own Club 33 Past President Bill McDade surprised his wife Carol with a Paul Harris Fellowship, in recognition and in appreciation for the 15 years she served as a foster mom. Bill said they cared for about 50 foster infants over the course of those years. Most were from unwed mothers and quite a number came to them abused, neglected and physically harmed. Bill said that Carol's "labor of love" was her way of giving back to her community and that she wanted to help start these children on the road to a better—even a good-- life.

Thanks to all who helped present this week's program:

- ◆ Inspirational Moment – (USMC) Larry Hoeksema – whose daughter is participating in the "Race Across America" – bicycling from Annapolis to Oceanside. Good luck, Ann!!
- ◆ The tuneful Club 33 Singers, accompanied by the amazing Bryan Verhoye.
- ◆ Past President and newsworthy himself, Bert Wahlen. Thanks to Ray McKewon and The Xceptional Music Company for their sponsorship.
- ◆ Everyone who participated in Camp Enterprise and to Bryan Brant for filming and producing a wonderful video we watched outlining the fun and education of this year's CE. And to the Rotaracts who worked tirelessly at CE and continue to support Club 33 in so many ways.

We welcomed:

- ◆ PDG, Larry Scott and Doug Stephens.
- ◆ Current DG, Louise Andres, and my tablemate. I learned Louise is a CASA, doing her part to help with court-appointed adoptions.
- ◆ A Rotarian from Boulder, CO, and one from Germany, who was gifted with a bag of goodies.

And to President Michelle, this past president has two words: short-timer, short-timer, short-timer. You'll soon be among the rest of us in the cheap seats, constantly glancing at your watch. In the meantime, great job!!

MOST ENDOWMENT CHALLENGE

Price Charities established a challenge grant for donations made to Mercy Outreach Surgical Team (MOST) in honor of Gene Rumsey's wife, Mary Ann. The goal is to establish the MOST/Mary Ann Rumsey Endowment to ultimately fund one of the annual trips to Mexico to carry out the good work of MOST. As you are probably aware, Club 33 has been an active supporter of MOST for a number of years, and many of our members participate in the trips.

The Club's Foundation is planning to make a donation to MOST by the end of June so that it meets the deadline for the match by Price Charities. If you would like to be included, please make a donation to the San Diego Rotary Foundation noting the restriction that it is for the MOST/Mary Ann Rumsey Endowment and send it to the office by June 15. Additional information can be found here: www.scripps.org/MOSTchallenge

MONARCH SCHOOL—Art Without A Roof

A few of our students have been working with Art Without A Roof to put their artwork on clothing items. The website to purchase an item is now up and running! Currently pocket T-shirts, tank tops, and art prints designed by Monarch students (among others) are available at www.artwithoutarroof.com. Every t-shirt purchase will put some money in the artist's pocket, help fund scholarships for our youth and bring funds back to the Therapeutic Arts Program. Check out the featured partner page for some nicely done interviews with one of our student artists, Andrea, and our Director of Therapeutic Arts, Rachelle. <http://artwithoutarroof.com/pages/featured>

Art Without a Roof is a growing community of resilient artists who strive to continually push the boundaries of expression to fund various important causes around the world, while also promoting and keeping the arts alive in our communities and schools.
